

If you put
Crabs in a bowl...

And one tries
to escape...

The others pull
her down!

This is called
'crab mentality'

or

"if i can't have
it, you can't too."

But...

Crabs don't naturally occur
in bowls!

They were put
there.

In an un-natural
state.

By Someone with more power,
control and
privilege.

That's what happens when people in power force less fortunate ones to scramble for their life.

Cooperation and kindness becomes a luxury
affordable to those better off and then
the poor and marginalized
are villainised.

Trauma is not a natural state.

So don't judge the oppressed by their resistance.
